CAUSE

The offender was released from custody on December 9, 2005, to begin a 3-year term of supervision. He is also concurrently on state supervision for a possession of methamphetamine offense. On January 21, 2006, after leaving a bar, the offender was shot in the upper chest, by an unknown assailant. The bullet exited the offender's upper shoulder and was not life threatening. The offender reported to police that he had consumed several pitchers of beer in a bar just prior to the shooting. The offender's use of alcohol is in violation of his conditions. The circumstances of the shooting and the offender's version of the events surrounding the shooting are suspect and still under investigation. Subsequently, the offender submitted a urine sample on February 23, 2006, which tested positive for methamphetamine. As a result of the positive test and failure to report, the offender was taken into custody by his state supervision officer and served a 15-day term of confinement. He was released from custody on his state violation on March 8, 2006. The offender is in substance abuse treatment through the Washington State Department of Corrections and continues to participate in their program.

The indicated modifications concerning drug and alcohol testing are requested to be in compliance with the recent 9th Circuit case law. As it appears, the offender was frequenting bars and taverns, a modification to prohibit this activity is also requested. The offender is currently unemployed, and the community service modification is in part viewed as a sanction for his noncompliant behavior. It is respectfully requested the Court take judicial notice of the alleged violations and take no further action at this time, other than ordering the requested modifications. The offender has signed a wavier agreeing to the modification of the conditions of his supervised release, which is enclosed for the Court's review.

The offender has a long and serious criminal history, he has been warned that any additional violations of his conditions of supervised release will result in a return before the Court for revocation proceedings.

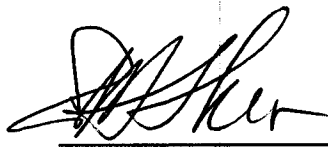

Respectfully submitted,

by

 Kevin Crawford
 U.S. Probation Officer
